These walks form the first part of the Creative Pathways project A partnership between visual artist Caroline Inckle and the Forres Community Woodlands Trust. Part of the Forres Area Creative Place programme, a Project ARTS award winner the Creative Pathways project aims to promote our community woodlands as a wonderful community resource and a place of reflection and creativity.

During these gentle walks we will reflect together on how we use walking in nature, not only as a way to relax, but to problem solve and find creative direction.

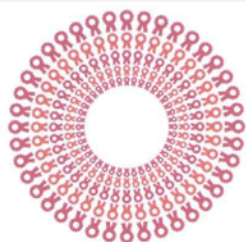

Each walk will begin with a short introduction to the project and will include a short creative activity for which no materials will be necessary.

Caroline will feed the themes which emerge from our conversations and creative activities into creating some new site specific art work for the community woodland using materials gathered from the woods.

Walks are free and begin at Sanquhar Loch car park.
